Question Two: (30 points)

Read the following text carefully, and then in your ANSWER BOOKLET answer all the questions that follow. Your answers should be based on the text.

Ibn Bassal was a writer, a scientist and an engineer who lived in Al-Andalus in the eleventh century CE. He worked in the court of Al-Ma'mun, who was the King of Toledo. His great passions were botany and agriculture. Although he was a great scholar, he was also a practical man and all of his writing came from his own 'hands-on' experience of working the land. One of the many things which Ibn Bassal achieved was A Book of Agriculture. The book consisted of sixteen chapters which explain how best to grow trees, fruit and vegetables, as well as herbs and sweet-smelling flowers. The most famous chapter of all was the one that described how to treat different types of soil. Ibn Bassal also worked out how to irrigate the land by finding underground water and digging wells. He designed water pumps and irrigation systems. All of these things were passed on through his writing.

The influence of Ibn Bassal's book was enormous. As farmers down the generations followed his instructions and advice, the land became wonderfully fertile and produced more than enough food for the fast-growing population. The irrigation systems that he and his followers put in place are still in evidence in Spain. Although his name is not widely known, Ibn Bassal's legacy to the world has been great.

1. Ibn Bassal's book explained the best way to grow different kinds of plants. Write down four kinds of these plants. (8 points)
2. The text states that the influence of Ibn Bassal's book was huge. Write down two pieces of evidence showing that. (6 points)
3. The text indicates that Ibn Bassal was a true polymath. Write down three examples of his areas of knowledge. (6 points)
4. Find a word in the text which means "what someone leaves to the world after their death". (4 points)
5. Applying technology in the farming industry has many advantages. Write down three of these advantages. (6 points)

Question Three: (30 points)

A) Read the following text carefully, and then in your ANSWER BOOKLET answer all the questions that follow. Your answers should be based on the text. (24 points)

Speaking a foreign language, it is claimed, improves the functionality of your brain in several different ways. Learning new vocabulary and grammar rules provides the brain with beneficial 'exercise', which improves memory. As well as exercising the brain, it is thought that learning a new language also presents the brain with unique challenges. These include recognizing different language systems and ways to communicate within these systems. These skills improve your chances of success in other problem-solving tasks as well. It is said that students who study foreign languages do better, on the whole, in general tests in maths, reading and vocabulary than students who have only mastered their mother tongue.

According to a study carried out by Pennsylvania State University, USA, multilingual people are able to switch between two systems of speech, writing, and structure quite easily. It has been proved that they are also able to switch easily between completely different tasks. One experiment required participants to operate a driving simulator while carrying out separate tasks at the same time. The experiment showed that multilingual participants were less distracted by the other tasks and therefore made fewer driving errors.

1. The text states that students of foreign languages often perform better in three areas in general tests. Write down two of them. (4 points)
2. The text mentions two tasks the participants had to do at the same time in the experiment. Write them down. (6 points)
3. Write down the sentence that gives the result of the experiment with the driving simulator. (5 points)
4. What does the underlined pronoun These refer to? (3 points)
5. The challenges a person might face in learning a foreign language are certainly less than the benefits they will gain. Think of this statement and in two sentences write down your point of view. (6 points)

B) Literature spot (6 points)

Read the following lines from A Green Cornfield carefully, and then answer the questions that follow:

And as I paused to hear his song
While swift the sunny moments slid,
Perhaps his mate sat listening long,
And listened longer than I did.

1. How do we know that the poet is not sure the skylark's mate is there? (3 points)
2. What is the rhyme scheme of the stanza above? (3 points)

Question Four: (20 points)

FREE WRITING

In your ANSWER BOOKLET, write a composition of about 120 words on ONE of the following:

1. In today's competitive world, employee training is essential, especially for newly employed workers. Write an essay discussing the reasons for providing ongoing training in the workplace and the advantages of employee training.
2. Some people say that it is the responsibility of the person themselves to control their stress, while others say it is the responsibility of those who are around. Write an essay discussing which point of view you agree with and explain the reasons that make one stressed and the effects of stress on health.
